NUMBER 38

The Event of the Theatrical Season.

Without doubt on next Saturday night, Marion theatre-goers will have an opportunity of seeing the greatest show ever seen in this city when J. A. Coburn's Greater Minstrel comes for one performance caused by an open date.

Manager Frisbie learning of this immediately started the wires working and after several long distant talks and by offering special inducements wishing to give the people of Marion the very best in the show world. This aggregation come direct from Paducah en route to the Northern cities and the same performance will be seen as given before Broadway audiences.

The Cincinnati Inquirer said in part of the show:

"Coburn's Greater Minstrels came to the Walnut for a weeks engagement and the opening was a packed house with one of the most enthusiastic audiences of the season, and the entertainment they offered was of that class of minstrelsy that perpetually attracts and holds its audience. "The spectacular feature was provided at the closing part of the performance, by Mantell's Marionette Hippodrome and Fairyland Transformation, which was beautiful and artistic.

"Good old fashioned minstrelsy however was the strong feature of the show, and in that it scored, its real success. The voices were much better than are usually heard in Minstrels, and the dancing was of the sort that brings your feet to a patter whether you will or not. Especially pleasing was the quartette which was encored time and again. But really special mention is invidious where all voices were good and all features up to the highest standard of Minstrelsy."

J. C. Bourland was at Blackford Friday in the interest of his insurance business.

A Slight Mistake Corrected.

Mrs. Sallie Gahagan was reported last week as selling 57 dozen eggs in January, whereas the correct number was 67 dozen actually sold, besides those put to setting hens. She has the R. I. Reds, one of the best species known.

Big Kansas Party.

J. E. Hunt, wife and three daughters, Sol Hunt, wife and two children, and L. L. Hunt wife and one child, left Tuesday for Kansas.

Ayers Howard and brother, of Larimie, Wyo., arrived Tuesday to visit their parents Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Howard near Emmaus for a few weeks.

B. H. Scott Gives to Church His Monument.

A bequest of $1,000 was made by the late B. H. Scott to the Broadway Methodist church. Mr. Scott requested that this sum be given by his estate for use by the church rather than to a monument over his grave. Mr. Scott was for a number of years chairman of the official board of this church and gave munificently to all the claims of the church during his lifetime. He left no will, but this request was found in his writing. — Paducah Sun.

Dies From Being Pierced by Spout of Oil Can.

Hickman, Ky., March 15. — The body of Will Hamil, a resident of Hickman, was brought here from Memphis, where he was killed by a street car. Young Hamil was a resident of West Hickman, but had been in Memphis for several months, where he was employed as oiler by the street car company. He was caught between two cars, and having an oil can in his pocket, as the long spout of the oil can pierced through his body, killing him almost instantly. He was eighteen years old.

Duroc Jersey Males.

A few choice young Duroc Jersey Males on sale next Monday, in Marion—any age desired. W. E. Dowell.

Rhodium $155 Per Troy Ounce.

Osmium is used to a small extent in some kinds of incandescent lamps. It is quoted at $33.70 per troy ounce. Palladium, which is well adapted for part of astronomical instruments and certain dental work, sells at $34 per ounce, and pure rhodium, which is of considerable value in making high temperature determinations, is quoted at $155 per ounce.

Foot Crushed Off.

Ray Deboe, son of Charley Deboe of Crayne, had the misfortune to lose one of his feet Saturday evening about dusk. He was taking a swinging ride on a passing fast freight train when his foot slipped under the wheels and was so badly crushed that amputation was necessary. Dr. Vernon Fox of Crayne, assisted by Dr. A. J. Driskill of this city, performed the operation and he is doing as well as could be expected.

Jump in Cost of Iridium.

Iridium is used principally for hardening platinum alloys. In 1909 the imports of iridium amounted to 341 pounds, valued at $135,878, the average cost being about $33 per troy ounce. The cost is rapidly advancing and was quoted at $60 per troy ounce in October, 1910.

FIGHT WITH WILDCAT.

Hardin County Boy Has Thrilling Experience With Animal Caught in Trap.

Elizabethtown, Ky., March 14. — William Fertig, a farmer's son, of near Stithon, this county, had a thrilling experience with a wildcat. He set a steel trap to catch some smaller animals and when he came back to see the result, found what he thought to be an ordinary large house cat in the trap. When he pressed the spring of the trap with his foot releasing the feline, it jumped at his throat with terrible ferocity.

He would have fared badly but for the timely appearance of one of his dogs, which had heard his cries. The dog succeeded in getting the cat off enough to let young Fertig have the use of his arms and shoot the animal. It was a very narrow escape and without dog and gun he would probably have been killed.

Madge Henry Dead.

Found dead in my barn lot late Friday afternoon, Feb. 17th, 1911, my horse, "Madge," over whose stately form the snows of thirty-four winters had blown. No horse, was ever better known or better loved by more people. Acquaintances and friends were found in every nook and corner of Crittenden, Caldwell, Livingston, Lyon and Union counties. His instinct, or a better word, in his case, his intelligence, for surely it bordered closely on it, was remarkable. I never knew him to forget anything—his acts of real kindness and expressions of gratitude, to those he loved was never excelled by any creature, however intelligent.

His religion, was inclined to the broad gauged type he little cared whose church, but one thing was sure if he had a chance he would go to church and in this he would put to blush many a Baptist deacon I have met in this life. He loved the very appearance of a church house, for oftentimes I have ridden him down the road he would take the bits and go charging off of the road when he discovered a church in view.

Three years ago, by reason of the infirmities of age we took the bridle off of this faithful old servant never to put it on again. I do thank God that my life has been spared to carefully care for and see the close of the beautiful career of old Madge.

We carefully gathered the emaciated form placed it in a wagon and carried it to a neighboring hill near town there we dug a grave where we laid him to rest forever from all his labors. J. S. HENRY

Mrs. Elizabeth Loving, of Denver, Colorado, who is on an extended visit to Kentucky relatives and friends, arrived here Saturday to visit Mrs. Sallie Williams several days. — Providence Enterprise.

LAWYER TO BLAME

Spanked His Wife When She Sued Him.

Evansville, Ind., March 9. — "I don't need a lawyer to fight a divorce case," said Frank Kuebler today when told his wife had sued him.

Kuebler is a wealthy farmer and an educated man. He believes in the adage that a woman should work, however, with the result that his wife sued him and charged cruel treatment.

As soon as he was informed of the suit he drove home and there faced his wife. He took her across his lap and spanked her with his slipper, according to her statements to the neighbors. This occurred early in the afternoon. About 4:30 o'clock Kuebler and his wife came to her lawyer's office here, and she directed the attorney to immediately dismiss the suit for divorce. "D—m you lawyers, anyhow," said Kuebler. "My wife didn't want a divorce and I soon showed her she didn't."

CUT-OUT MOVEMENT DEAD.

Burley Tobacco Society Turns Down Request.

A death blow to the movement of the cut-out of the Burley tobacco crop of 1911, was apparently administered Monday when the executive committee of the Burley Tobacco Society made the following conclusive reply to a committee from the meeting of the district board of the Burley Tobacco Union, which submitted the pledges for a cut-out, which had been secured by the Burley Union:

"Committee of the Burley Union: Gentlemen—At the present time, from your reports, we do not see our way clear to recommend our people to take any action as to the 1911 cut-out. Respectfully, 'EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE BURLEY TOBACCO SOCIETY.'

PENSION BILL.

Giving All Soldiers of the Civil War a Pension.

A pension bill, which passed the House of Representatives at Washington, D. C., will give many of the veterans a substantial increase in pensions, as well as granting pensions to many of the veterans who heretofore have not been on the pension list.

The dispatch follows: "The House of Representatives has passed the Sulloway general pension bill, which grants pensions ranging from $12 to $35 a month to all soldiers who served ninety days in the United States army in the civil war or sixty days in the Mexican war, and who have reached the age of 62 years. The bill adds about $45,000,000 a year to the pension roll.

There were comparatively few members who were not anxious for an opportunity to pay tribute to the old soldier. The few who announced that they were going to oppose the measure were equally anxious for an opportunity to explain why they were doing so. Speaker Cannon himself took the floor at the close of the debate and made an excellent plea for the passage of the bill, which was passed by 212 to 62.

Opposition to the measure was expressed by some members on the ground that its terms were too general. It provides for the pensioning of all Union soldiers, regardless of disability, the only requirement being that they shall have attained the age of 62 years.

The general scale of pensions fixed in the new bill, according to age is as follows: Sixty-two years, $15 a month; 65 years, $20 a month; 70 years, $25 a month; 75 years, $30 a month.

It was declared by the advocates of the bill that 100 veterans are dying every twenty-four hours.

THE CURLY-HEADED BOY.

Just two years of age, the mother dandled him on her lap. He was the joy and pride of her life. She delighted to tell of his smart sayings. She looked into his deep-set blue eyes, as she would draw him to her side, and hug him to her bosom as only a mother can do. She would talk of him, painting his future in glowing colors. He would be a great and good man. Mother would be proud to see him stand in the church and talk in public and lead the congregation in prayer to the "Mother's God." But alas! alas! The boy is grown; a man of family; a father. The hair on his temples is beginning to turn white; the wrinkles of care are on his brow; the marks of dissipation are in his face. He is an enemy to all that is good. He has made pleasure and money his God. The mother is broken hearted. Slowly she is slipping down to the grave in sorrow. The dream of her life has been blasted, the mother heart is broken. The curly-headed boy whom she dandled on her lap with so much pride is an offense to all good men. Sin has a vice-like grip upon him which will not be loosened till his soul turned over to the "owner and controller of the damned."

Mothers, the above is a photograph of more than one boy, and a picture of more than one blasted hope. The boys' association with the men who gather around the blind tiger or the open saloon is responsible as a rule for the downfall.—Cadiz Record.

Gives Prompt Relief

Wm. H. Douglas, Jr., of Washington, D. C., says: I take great pleasure in informing you I have used Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey, and it gave me almost instant relief.

This is a sort of topsy-turvy world. No one seems to be satisfied. One man is struggling to get justice and another is flying from it. One man is saving up to buy a house and another is trying hard to sell his dwelling for less than it cost to get rid of it. One man is spending all the money he can earn in taking a girl to a theater or show and sending her valuable presents in hopes that he may eventually make her his wife, and his neighbor is spending all the gold he has saved trying to get a divorce. One man keeps a pistol to protect himself against burglars, while his neighbor doesn't keep one for fear of shooting himself or some member of the family. One man pays for his paper in advance because he can read it with greater relish, while another takes it four or five years without paying one cent for it, and enjoys it hugely all the while. Surely a queer old world this is.—Exchange.

Free Dyspepsia Sample

Sufferers from indigestion are waking up to the fact that peppermint lozenges, charcoal and "dyspepsia cures" are only makeshifts in the cure of so troublesome a complaint as chronic indigestion. What is required is something that will not only relieve but which will tone and train the digestive apparatus to again do its work normally, and this these simple remedies cannot do.

There is something more to the cure of indigestion than sweetening the breath, and yet a remedy that only contains digestive ingredients will not cure permanently, as the basis of indigestion is poor bowel circulation, and that requires a scientific laxative. We know of no remedy that combines these requirements better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which has been sold for a quarter of a century.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a laxative tonic, a scientific blending of natural ingredients for the cure of constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, stomach, sick headache and similar complaints. Its ingredients will so strengthen and tone the stomach and bowel muscles that they will again do their work naturally, and when that has been accomplished your trouble is over. Fannie Stuart, Staunton, Va., was a long-time sufferer, as was O. Tuck, Blackburn, Mo., and they both found their cure with this remedy. They became convinced that pills and tablets, salts, "dyspepsia cures," etc., were at best only temporary reliefs. They first accepted Dr. Caldwell's offer of a free sample bottle, which he willingly sends to anyone who forwards name and address. Later, having convinced themselves through the free sample, they bought Syrup Pepsin of their druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in return. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postcard or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

NOTA BENE.

When critics say my work is bad, I don't indulge in wail or woe, I simply smile and go my way, And say the critics do not know.

But when they pat me on the back And say they think my work immense, I take a rosier view of life To think they show such rare good sense.

THAT AWFUL BACKACHE

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills and an enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since. I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have the backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing we know of will do this so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for special advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

RICE, THE WORLD-FOOD.

(Montgomery Advertiser.)

What is the most universal food? What food is eaten by more people of the earth than any other?

"Rice," says an association of gentlemen of Louisiana, who have no connection with the rice trade, but who are banded together to promote the use of rice. They call rice the "World's Food," because it is important to more countries than any other food. For rice, too, is advanced the claim that it is the most nutritious and the most easily digested food in the world.

Rice as a world-food leads even wheat, which comes as a close second. Meats, and the term embraces all kind, comes third in importance. These are facts that the American housekeeper should know. Rice is not easy to cook as commonly supposed. A high order of culinary art is necessary to serve up a dish of rice in its most appetizing and tempting form. Hotel and boarding-house rice, hard as to grain and floating in a moist, gluey liquid, has come much to discourage the popularity of rice, as a people, and the old South staple article of diet. The Chinese and Louisiana cooks, as classes brought the art of cooking rice to its perfection. Rice, in its best form, comes with each grain standing as a unit, but blossoming out in its alabaster whiteness, like the full-blown rose. No dish is dearer or more tempting than this culinary masterpiece, each grain of which melts in the mouth, or mingles appetizingly with the butter or the gravy.

Attacks School Principal.

A severe attack on school principal, Chas. B. Allen, of Sylvania, Ga., is thus told by him. "For more than three years," he writes, "I suffered indescribable torture from rheumatism, liver and stomach trouble and diseased kidneys. All remedies failed till I used Electric Bitters, but four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me completely." Such results are common. Thousands bless them for curing stomach trouble, female complaints, kidney disorders, biliousness, and for new health and vigor. Try them. Only 50 cents at Haynes & Taylor and J. H. Orme's, Marion, Ky.

A Man's Stomach

Is Just as Good, or Bad as He Makes It.

If you are blessed with a good stomach be thankful and make up your mind to keep it good.

If you have a bad stomach; one that makes you feel miserable after eating; one that turns your food sour and causes gas to belch up in the mouth, then you want to get busy at once and turn your bad stomach into a good one. How can this be done? You ask.

Simply by using daily the best prescription for stomach ailments ever written.

What is the name of this prescription?

Wherever civilization exists it is known as MI-O-NA.

Haynes & Taylor sell it for 50 cents a box; they do more; they guarantee it to relieve stomach distress, in five minutes; they go even further and say: if MI-O-NA does not cure indigestion, acute or chronic, or any diseases caused by stomach disturbance they will give you your money back, without any haggling or red tape.

And this guarantee means that MI-O-NA stomach tablets, as most people call them, will cure biliousness, nausea, nervousness, heartburn, foul breath, nightmare and sleeplessness.

It means that MI-O-NA is such a wonderfully good remedy that it quickly turns a bad stomach into a good one, that will stay good, strong and vigorous, just as long as it is treated right. Try MI-O-NA ye men of weak stomachs, you take no risk. It is guaranteed by Haynes & Taylor and druggists everywhere. M2-16.

IN MISSOURI.

The fifth day of March, 1911, dawned dark and gloomy but it did not prevent the gathering of many friends, at the new home of L. C. Terry, of Sikeston, Mo., to celebrate the sixty-second birthday of Mrs. Lewis Terry.

As we looked in among this crowd, we found time and circumstances have not but slightly changed the faces of these friends, and although away in a distant state, we have among us many old time friends, with here and there, new faces which are almost as dear.

Those who were bidden to the feast, (for such it was good substantial besides many dainties) under which the table literally groaned, were:—Dr. and Mrs. Daugherty, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Barger, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Terry, Messrs. Dave and Jamie Kevill and James Sells. Misses Mary Lucile Daugherty and Vivian Terry. Master Lewis Randolph Terry, of Sikeston; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Youngblood and Master Gaston Youngblood, of Dexter. After a delightful day spent in old time reminiscences of the past and planning for the future, the ladies were invited for an automobile ride by Messrs. Kevill which proved to be one of the most enjoyable features of the day.

Mrs. Terry received several nice presents—among which was a shining five dollar gold piece. We miss many dear faces, and wished they were here, but after all we spent a pleasant day, and at a late hour wishing mother Terry God speed we parted trusting in God and feeling that is best for us.

As the old year sinks down in time's ocean, Stand ready to launch with the new.

And waste no regrets, no emotion, As the masts and spars pass from view.

Weep not if some treasures go under, And sink in the rotten ship's hold

That blithe bonny barge sailing yonder, May bring you more wealth than the old.

Health very good in our locality at this writing. All who have been reported on the sick list, are about straight again.

The recent freezes have made the wheat look like it might be on the sick list, however, we hope it is not seriously damaged.

Walter (Buck) Powell and Miss Alice Roberts were married Tuesday, and on Friday night the boys of the vicinity gave them an old time "chivari." We offer congratulations to the young couple and hope that their troubles be very few.

T. F. and W. T. Henry went Union county last week on business.

Moving seems to be the order of the day at present, as Ben Gray sold his farm a few days ago, and has now bought a farm from B. F. Burton, who in turn bought possession of R. C. Brown, and Mr. Brown moved to what is known as the John Robinson farm on the Marion and Fords Ferry road. Thus you see three families have made moves.

Dick Deason moved to T. F. Henry's place for a short time.

Uncle Hugh McKee has been bothered very much with neuralgia of the head several days, but is improving at this writing.

Master Willie Evans is down with the gripe at his brother Henry's.

Farmers in this community are backward about sowing their oats, owing to the condition of the ground.

Mrs. B. F. Slaughter has just took a nice hatch of 62 chicks from her incubator. She ordered a brooder for her brood when she set the incubator, but as the chickens came first she is having quite a lot of trouble keeping the little fowls comfortable.

Ernest Payne, of Princeton, was on his farm Saturday sowing Alsike clover seed. Ernest is a fireman on the L. C. railroad, but is taking a great deal of interest in, or concerning the improvement of his farm and spares seed nor means in improving same.

Mrs. Charles McCormick has about fifty young chicks, some of which are about two weeks old. Mrs. McCormick will be able to put some nice fliers on the market very early and at a time when they will command a fancy price.

Miss Susie McKee spent Saturday evening with Mrs. Mary Slaughter.

HOME PATRON'S CREED.

I buy at home

Because my interests are here.

Because the community which is good enough for me to live in is good enough for me to buy in.

Because I believe in transacting business with my friends.

Because I want to see the goods.

Because I want to get what I buy when I pay for it.

Because my home dealer "carries" me when I "run short."

Because every dollar I spend at home stays at home and works for the community in which I live.

Because the man I buy from stands back of the goods.

Because I sell what I produce here at home for cash and here I buy—sometimes on credit.

Because the man I buy from helps support my schools, my churches, my lodge, my home.

Because the man I buy from pays his part of the town, county and state tax.

Because when ill luck, misfortune or bereavement comes, the man I buy from is here with his kindly greeting, his words of cheer and his pocket-book if need be.

Here I live and here I buy and here I expect to die.—Warsaw Leader.

DR. BELL'S ANTI-PAIN

For Internal and External Pains.

A SERIOUS QUESTION.

A very newly married young man, on arriving home recently, found a note from his wife. On reading it he dashed from the house to a cab-stand and drove madly to the nearest hospital. Inquiry for his wife there proved fruitless, as it did at the next hospital. At the third and last, when he was told she was not there, he exclaimed in desperation "Oh! where can she be?"

The nurse noticing his despairing look asked where he expected his wife to be. He replied that she was to undergo a serious operation and might at that moment be dying.

"What was the operation?" asked the nurse.

"Here is the note she left for me," he said. "That is all I know about it."

The nurse read on the crumpled piece of paper: "Dear Jack: Have gone to have my kimona cut out."

"WHEN SPRING TIME COMES, GENTLE ANNIE."

(O. G. W.)

Friend Jenkins: The time is rapidly approaching when the "Spring" poets will be tumbling over themselves and each other in the vain endeavor to arrive early and greet—with the greatest deference—the great and august Moxet of the unique Record-Press, to have their crudite productions inserted as first on the program. To anticipate the rush and confusion that this immense, promiscuous crowd may effect, I desire to be the pioneer on this occasion, and have the extreme pleasure of having the first waltz with Gentle Annie on the village green.

With all due consideration and much midnight-lamp labor, I present you the following prelude as a starter:

Of "Beautiful Snow" and "Beautiful Spring."

As usual, all pitiful poets can sing.

High "G" (whiz):

But I, a fresh tyro—though failing the best.

Am anxious, quite anxious, to be ahead of the rest—

Can you see? (biz).

So now, in condition for the laudable race

I shall enter—providing you spare me the space—

And ask you to notice the pathos—so sweet—

And observe the trite style—the rhythm and feet.

SETTLEMENT OF A MUCH VEXED QUESTION.

Shakespeare's immortal tragedy, "Hamlet," was produced one evening recently at a one night stand, and in the local paper on the following day the criticism of the performance included the following comment:

"There has long been a dispute as to whether Shakespeare or Lord Bacon wrote the plays of Shakespeare. That knotty problem can now be solved. Let the graves of both men be opened. 'Hamlet' was written by the one who turned over last night."

BOOM FOR MAYO FAIRLY LAUNCHED.

Washington Paper Comes Out With a Statement Saying He Wants Paynter's Job.

HAS BEEN DICKERING WITH BIG EASTERN INTERESTS.

Ollie James Says He Will Be at the Post When the Gong Sounds, and Ahead at the Wire.

News-Democrat Special Service.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—J. C. Mayo has joined Gen. Percy Haly here, and the Kentucky senatorial pot is bubbling at a lively rate. It would not surprise members of the Kentucky delegation if there should be some announcement soon which would be very interesting to the folks at home.

The Washington Post to-day attributes significance to Mayo's presence here. It says:

"The meeting of Senator Watson, of West Virginia, and Mayo in Washington recalls what was much spoken of during the Charleston contest—the probability that Mayo would seek to join his friend and business associate in the Senate. The ambition of Mayo is to be Senator from Kentucky at the close of the Paynter term, and the friends of Mayo have been busy for some time back in perfecting a state organization."

As Mayo was active throughout the West Virginia contest, and did much good for Watson, there can be a careful return of the compliment and Watson is, above all else, true to his friends and loyal to those who have stood by him, both in business and politics. Mayo has been a great business figure in the Eastern Kentucky region, and has done much to develop the coal and timber tracts, both of Kentucky and West Virginia, so that he can almost be classed as a benefactor. He is a bluff country boy still, and his lack of affectation and general make-up of every day sort has done much to aid him in building up something of a democratic machine in his state.

WHAT OLLIE SAYS.

Is a Candidate for Senator, and Senator Only.

News-Democrat Special Service.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—Ollie M. James to-day branded as unequivocally false the report circulated in Louisville that there is a deal looking to the abandonment of the state primary, the election of J. C. C. Mayo as Senator, and Mr. James as Governor.

"You are authorized to say for me," said Mr. James, "that I never heard of such a suggestion until now and that there is no truth in it whatever. I am not a candidate for Governor and I will not be a candidate for Governor. I am a candidate for Senator and I will be a candidate for Senator until the end and the only way to beat me is to beat me in the primary."

Mr. James said he had not seen Mr. Mayo, who is in town.

It is expected Senator Paynter will have something to say soon in regard to his attitude toward the Senatorship.

Porker Eats Dynamite, Which Explodes When Owner Kicks Animal.

Cordele, Ga., Feb. 22.—Chief of Police Sumner returned to-day from Worth county, where he had a narrow escape from "being blown to pieces in a peculiar accident. He says that farmer named Ertelinger had some valuable swine and desired him (the chief) to see the drove."

One of the finest "porkers" in the bunch was sound asleep and refused to get up. The farmer kicked the pig in the ribs and there was an explosion that took the chief of police off his feet, knocked the farmer down and blew out the side of the building. Incidentally, it killed the pig.

The farmer later discovered that a quantity of dynamite that he had hidden under the pen for blasting purposes had been eaten by his pig.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Feb. 26.—Two masked burglars broke into the town jail at Warrior Run, Pa., yesterday, and, bursting open the door of the cell in which Stanley Jandus, the only prisoner, was confined, robbed him at the point of a revolver of $20. The burglars then escaped and Jandus, who was being held on a trivial charge, finding himself free, went out and notified the police.

KENTUCKY MINERALS.

In summarizing some recent work in the flourspar district in Western Kentucky, Mr. F. Julius Fohs, of the State Geological Survey writes:

"The greater number of faults and fissures in the district, the majority of which carry workable shoots to a depth of at least 1,000 feet, make certain a large possible tonnage of flourspar—enough to supply all likely American demand for at least six centuries to come. Locally, the fissures carry barytes shoots; but compared with flourspar shoots they are small in number, though at times of great width, twenty feet or more. The by-product lead and zinc is often sufficient to add materially to the profits, while in some veins shoots in which lead and sinze predominate would pay to operate on their own account. The Sanders flotation process makes possible the separation of flourspar from zinc blende; a custom mill would be able to operate profitably on such ores."

The flourspar district, it should be remembered, is embraced in six counties, Caldwell, Crittenden, Livingston, Christian, Lyon and Trigg, and development is largely confined to the first three. The deposits are the most extensive known in the United States, but in the past few years the industry has been somewhat hampered by business conditions. It has always been retarded by reason of inadequate facilities for transportation. The information that the flourspar exists in sufficient quantities to meet the entire American demand for six hundred years to come, and that lead and zinc may be mined in considerable quantities, would appear to establish the fact that there is a great future for the industry.

These minerals, important as they are, do not by any means constitute the mineral resources of the various counties in the district. Some of these counties have coal deposits; others have iron ore; some, if not all, have limestone, sands and clays of great value. We do not hear so much about the buried wealth of Western Kentucky as we hear about that of the eastern part of the State, but it is there in vast chunks and in great variety.

HOW IT REALLY HAPPENED.

The Courier-Journal was the only one of the four Louisville dailies to print the exact truth as to why the state primary was not called off.

The Times and Post reporters were probably deceived, though why they should have been, if they visited the lobby of the Louisville hotel Friday and kept their ears open, nobody who was there could well understand. As for the Herald, its reporter has abandoned news and gone to writing editorial exclusively.

He knew the facts, but it did not suit him to print them.

The Times said Judge Allie Young "blocked the game" by telephoning to Louisville he would not be a candidate for governor as long as McCreary was a candidate. This was positively silly, yet the Times repeated it the next day. The Post echoed this groundless story.
Allie would never have run for governor even had McCreary abandoned the race—and he well knew McCreary would not—for he was well aware there was a Western Kentucky dark horse lying in wait for him.

When Sam Spalding, at 8 p.
m. Friday, deserted the convention crowd, at the telegraphic request of Ben Johnson, it was all off. They thought they had it fixed 7 to 6 to call off the primary, but upon losing Spalding,
they had to throw up the sponge.
Young's message, coming in hours later, had nothing whatever to do with it. Every man Young, Mayo or Haly could influence was still in favor of calling off the primary, but they could do nothing without Spalding.

Ben Johnson did not wire to Spalding in the interest of Mc-Creary, of course, but on behalf of his friend, Ollie James, at whom the effort to call off the primary was really directed; but McCreary, deserted by those who drew him into the contest for governor as soon as they had disposed of Johnson, was grateful enough, nevertheless, for this lifesaver thrown to another man.

But the rarest gem of fiction
was that printed in the Herald,
which said:

"When the committee met the Young-Whallen-Prewitt combination realized that defeat was to be its portion. When these men learned that Mr. Spalding had been converted to the primary plan and that they could not expect help from Mayo and Gen. Haly, they gave up the fight."

A week ago Mayo and Haly were jubilantly whispering to their friends in Washington that "we now have enough votes to call off the primary." Ever since the senatorial race was included in the primary, this conspiracy has been going on with Haly as the head of it. These repeated meetings of the executive committee have been called solely for that purpose. But every time the conspirators have been thwarted by the real representatives of Democracy in Kentucky.

Those Louisville newspapers ought to be proud of the "talent" they employ to report political meetings. Ex.

MARION, KY.

Letter From Louisa, Ky.

Louisa, Ky., Mar. 6, 1911.

Record-Press, Marion, Ky.
Have been in Carter, Boyd and Lawrence counties since my last letter to you. Ashland is quite a city—has street railroads. The Ohio river at Ashland is about one-third as wide as it is at Cave-in-Rock, Ill. There is a steam ferry connecting interurban railroad to Huntington, West Virginia, fifteen miles; fare, including ferriage, is fifteen cents.

To stand on the bank of the Ohio one hundred and fifty miles above Cincinnati and look at the rugged hills of Ohio, makes one feel that he is a good ways from Marion. The Big Sandy empties in the Ohio five miles above Ashland at Catlettsburg, Ky., and forms the east boundry of Kentucky. The Big Sandy is about two thirds as large as the Cumberland river and just across the river is W. Va. Louisa is the county seat of Lawrence Co., and is quite a nice town. Just over the Big Sandy is Ft. Gay, W. Va. I walked across the bridge this evening over in to West Virginia.

There are several churches
here, both North and South, what a pity that all churches are not united in one great effort to fight sin.

This is a mountainous country,
full of coal, gas and some oil.
There is quite a difference in the talk and ways of the people here and western Kentucky, but they are fine, friendly people.

All fuel here is gas the churches are heated with it too, at Ashland they use gas to melt pig iron also across the river in Ironton, O. There are lots of public works in east Kentucky. They have eastern time across the Big Sandy in W. Virginia, they are one hour ahead of our time here.
Please send me copy of the Johnson county.

PEG-LEG ANIMALS.

Story of Deer and Cows With Wooden Members.

Nashville, Tenn., March 14—Several cities or rural communities have claimed the distinction of having domestic animals equipped with wooden legs, but Nashville is the only city perhaps that ever boasted of a "peg-leg" deer. The deer, however, did not think a wooden leg was so much to boast of and never really appreciated the distinction.

The deer was the property of Col.
J. H. Acklen, State Game Warden,
having been raised from a fawn about his home in West End Park.
It was thoroughly tame and roved
about the vicinity of the Acklen home entirely fearless of man. One of its resorts for roving was Centennial Park, where it will be recalled by many visitors to the old Exposition grounds in recent years, as a beautiful and graceful animal, that did not in the least object to receiving friendly pats or things to eat from human kind. In its roving, however, the deer one day strayed far back of the Ack-len home and in the course of its rambles someone shot it. The deer's leg was badly shattered by the shot and it raced to the Acklen home with the injured member just about dangling by the flesh.

Calls Aid of Veterinary.

To save the pet's life Col. Acklen called in the aid of a veterinary, who amputated the wounded leg much after the fashion that a surgeon takes off the leg of a man. The wound gradually healed, but the aspect of the lamed animal hopping about on three legs was so pathetic that Col. Ack-len decided to experiment with a wooden leg for the deer. At some pains and some expense an artificial leg was made and finally affixed to the stump. The deer, however, did not approve. He preferred to hop about on three legs rather than participate in such nature faking. Repeatedly efforts were made to accustom the animal to the "peg," but it would never be satisfied until it had kicked off the artificial member. This done it would go loping off about its business satisfied. Many visitors at the park will recall how well the deer got after its leg had healed, but few very few of those who claimed friendship with his deerhood ever knew that the graceful animal had a wooden leg at home, probably the only artificial deer's leg in existence.

Deer Gets New Home.

Finally Col. Acklen gave the deer to the prison authorities and it took up its residence there, its wooden leg being the only baggage that it carried to its new abode. This was some time ago, but even in the presence of the heavy hand of the law and the constituted authorities, the deer persisted in kicking off his wooden leg every time an effort there was made to restore him his natural number of legs. Another deer, one from the old Belle Meade herd, also used to loaf about the prison grounds.
Now both have disappeared; whether they have died, been killed or have emigrated to other parts, Warden
Rice has not been able to figure out.
He rather thinks the "peg-leg" deer
has died.

The deer is not the only four-footed animal in these parts which boasted an artificial member, though there has been but one so far as generally known—a cow owned by Maj.

E. C. Lewis, chairman of the board of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St.
Louis railway, and kept on his country place at Sycamore, in Cheatham county. When this cow lost her leg
Maj. Lewis thought to try the experiment on her and equipped her with a wooden leg. After "Peg Leg," as she became widely known, grew accustomed to her new leg she accepted it as a matter of course and daily went about her business at Syl-amore serenely, though deliberately.
To all who visited the beautiful home
the cow was an object of great interest. Her fame even spread beyond the limits of Tennessee and she had her "picture in the papers," notably the Courier-Journal. At the time of the Tennessee Centennial Exposition the matter was seriously considered of allowing "Peg Leg" to visit the exposition for the edification of visitors there. However, the idea was abandoned, it being feared that the trip might be too hard for her. The cow lived for years traveling about on her wooden leg and died full of years and full of honors and the mother of numerous offspring.

Kentucky Boasted of One.

Bowling Green, Ky., too, is said to have formerly boasted of a cow with a wooden leg which got about very satisfactorily thus equipped. But there have not been many of these "peg-leg" animals, as the veterinarians say, so far as this country is concerned, the reason being that most farmers when a cow, for instance, breaks a leg generally ear-her off very promptly to the butcher. In Germany, it is said, a domestic animal with an artificial limb is much more frequently seen.

CHILD DIES AFTER TAKING PILLS SHE PLAYED WITH.

As the result of swallowing laxative pills, with which she had been allowed to play, Frieda Geshelein, the 2-year-old daughter of Israel Geshe-lein, a blacksmith employed by the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, died of strychnine poisoning at her parent's home, 643 Paris avenue, at 8:40 last night. As soon as the mother discovered that the child was sick she sent for Dr. Edwin T. Bruce, 521 West Hill street.
When he arrived he saw at once that there was no hope. The child died ten minutes after his arrival.

Coroner Duncan was notified and found that death was accidental. He learned that Mrs. Geshelein had given the baby two of the tablets, which, she said, had been given to her some time ago by the Jewish dispensary,
First street, near Walnut. The Coroner said, however, that two of the tablets would not have caused the death of the child, who he thought,
must have swallowed quite a number of them. The mother said that she allowed the little one to play with the box containing the pellets, which consist of strychnine, bella donna and aloin. They are sugar-coated and taste pleasantly, which probably induced the child to eat a number of them. Courier Journal.

What The Assessor's Book

Shows About Crittenden.

One would expect the books to show the largest increase in dogs, that is, if one may believe all the evidence that his ears hear, and his eyes behold. But the increase is only 208, and there are now but 1278 dogs in the county.
Since the tax is moderate, and the signs of increase many, we may expect the books to show it next year—perhaps.

We have 4863 sheep, an increase of 445 over last year.
These are valued at $2.50 per head. But for the work of some of the dogs listed, or not listed, the number of sheep would have been swelled to 4943, as their were damage claims filed for exactly 80 sheep killed and crippled during the year. It is not surprising to see that the sheep killed were in every case the best of the flock, and that the average claim per head was $5.00.
The Crittenden county dog certainly knows a good sheep when he sees it.

It is not so easy to account for the loss of 5665 acres of land, and 26 town lots. It may be that the surveyors have abandoned the old time way of calculating and now measure from hilltop to hilltop. Certain it is, the assessors books show that we now have that number less of acres and town lots than we had one year ago. The total acreage is now 213,989, but the average value has increased 30c, and it is now valued at $7.90 per acre.
The missing town lots were worth $15,038 and the value of the 782 remaining is $448,657.

Beginning June 13th including the 14, 15 and 16th, a discussion between Boyce Taylor, a missionary Baptist and George H. Craymer at Emmaus church.

Subject—The Scriptures teach that the commission of Matthew 28, 19 is water baptism and to be continued until the end of the christian age.

Second—The Scriptures teach that the Gospel, Galations 3 and 7 and Ephesians 4 and 5 is Holy Spirit baptism and the only one to be continued to the end of the christian age.

Third—The Scriptures teach that the Lord's Supper is a New Testament Institution to be continued to the end of the christian age.

Fourth—The Scriptures teach that all carnal ordinances, such as water baptism and the Lords Supper were due to cease when the law of reformation was given about the year A. D. 64.

Walter McConnell A Benedict.

TO THE TOBACCO GROWERS OF THE STEMMING DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.

Realizing to the limit the grave responsibilities and onerous duties confronting the District Board of the Stemming Association, we, the undersigned committeemen, composing that board, in the sincerest fraternal spirit, deem it timely and appropriate to issue this official address, the mission of which is meant in all sincerity to brace and strengthen the grand cause of farmers' co-operation. Herein we lay before the growers of the district the true state of affairs as seen from an official standpoint wherein shall be recounted, up to date, the local conditions peculiar to this district, helping or hindering the cause of co-operation.

At the outset, let it be noted, this letter is addressed to all the tobacco growers of this district, whether hitherto co-operating or playing a lone hand. Wherefore, at the outset, let us frankly record the agreements and the differences common to all tobacco growers—members or non-members.

And first as to agreements.

All tobacco growers are agreed that there exists a Tobacco Trust and that the same is a monopoly.

That this monopoly is represented by one buyer.

That, unrestrained by law, this monopoly did confiscate right in this district several crops of tobacco—tossing the producer therefor a three cent average—not one half the cost of production.

That during those years of confiscation, in this district were, say, 12 thousand sellers of tobacco, defenseless, against the heartless and merciless greed and rapacity of the one buyer.

That in June, 1906, the Stemming District Association of tobacco growers was formed for the purpose obtaining a fair and reasonable price for tobacco, and since that time, there has been only one seller, virtually speaking, for all the tobacco in the district. He has set the price on successive crops for member and non-member.

Since June, 1906, the beginning of the Association, tobacco has yielded all the producers an aggregate net average of 7 1-4 cents, or two and one-half times the price realized in the days of confiscation, when there were twelve thousand defenseless sellers and only one buyer.

That the average of pooled tobacco in the five counties during successive years since 1906 has been 75 per cent of production.

That the concerted action of the co-operating farmers of the district has resulted in inestimable benefit to non-member of the Association.

That the course of conduct pursued by non-members has not been of the slightest benefit to members of this Association by advancing the price of tobacco in this district.

That the sale made of one and a half million pounds of the 1910 crop by the Zion pool in Henderson county at 7 cents average, plus the excess, if any, to be paid the Stemming Association, had a very depressing effect on the pending sale of the 10,000,000 pounds of Association Henderson county tobacco. Despite the which the Association was content to compass the sale of all the 1910 crop of Henderson county tobacco at more than 7 cents average—the price the Zion pool was willing to take.

That every grower of tobacco has a perfect legal right to pool or not to pool his tobacco.

That farmers should ever remember they are neighbors and brothers and as such should be tolerant and sympathetic, fraternal and helpful. Farmers, members or non-members, should, under whatever strain of tense irritation, scrupulously respect the legal rights of one another and frown down any intimation of lawlessness to the person or property of farmers.

The foregoing enumeration of articles of agreement, we feel assured, all fair-minded, intelligent farmers, members or non-members, in five counties will promptly and cheerfully subscribe to. And in our humble judgment the foregoing enumeration will serve to clear up seeming difficulties and contradictions.

The members of this Board are all farmers and as such realize the vital necessity for concerted action on the part of farmers in marketing tobacco—the great staple of the district.

If we can be shown a better method of pooling than that afforded by the Stemming Association, or if reforms are needed in the Association, it is our duty to advocate the methods and reforms shown to be more effective.

But we must hold on to old co-operation tools until supplied with better tools. Our lesser differences should be forgotten in the presence of a common enemy.

THE POOLING IN THIS YEAR OF 1911.

This Board cannot determine whether or not there shall be a pool in this year of 1911. We, in pursuance of our duties, can only provide for a canvass of the district whereby every grower in the five counties may have opportunity to pool if he cares to. And this to notify all the growers of the district that pledge papers for the year 1911 will, in the immediate future, be in circulation throughout all the counties, and the campaign pushed to a vigorous conclusion by trusted canvassers. Thereafter, say in the month of July or August, the members throughout the five counties will be convened at our call in magisterial district meetings and the full results of the canvass for pledges made known to the end that members throughout the district may decide whether or not the association shall continue to do business at the old stand; or that, after a series of brilliant achievements in the face of colossal difficulties covering a period of years, the dissolution of that glorious band of co-operating farmers shall be sorrowfully ordered.

Survive or perish, will be a matter for a decision of all the members next July or August. That decision will, of course, depend on the result of the canvass made for pledges.

We, your District Board, earnestly advise all the growers of the five counties to pledge their 1911 crop to the stemming association for safe guarding and selling, and will briefly mention several potent reasons for that course, And

First, the, in the face of colossal obstacles, great victories achieved over a crushing monopoly by the co-operating farmers through the medium of their stemming association.

Second—The certainty that that crushing and merciless monopoly will again confiscate the tobacco product of farmers' labor in the five counties should this association perish, as absolutely proven by the parallel fate of the Burley growers after the dissolution of the Burley Society. The net average realized by the disorganized burley growers for the 1910 crop, we learn from information, deemed reliable, will run from six to seven cents. For while public sales indicate a fraction more, thousands of crops were, it is said, sold at the barn for 5 to 7 cents. Whereas under the association burley growers realized from 17 to 20 cents average.

Third—The futility of farmers attempting to accomplish anything worth while through the medium of little pools, as demonstrated by the record of the Zion pool in selling that pool's 1910 crop. Also by the abortive efforts of three or four little pools on the other side of Green river. An average of 6 1-4 cents is about their limit.

To illustrate, Monopoly said to the sales committee of the Stemming Association: "On the other side of Green river we are buying Daviess, Hancock and McLean county pooled tobacco at a fraction over 6 cents, and here in your own county of Henderson the Zion pool is perfectly willing to take seven cents; then why should you demand seven and a half cents for unfired and eight cents for fired tobacco? Moreover we stand pledged to pay the same price for the Zion pool as we shall pay you. The Zion pool is willing to take seven cents, and we'll never pay you more." That is what Monopoly said. Despite the which the sales committee persisted, and was finally successful in selling both the association and the Zion pool at an average of 7 and 7 1-2 cents. And, we, in the kindest fraternal spirit, recount these undisputed facts to our brother farmers who were in the 1910 Zion pool for their serious consideration. Four of the members of this board are from counties other than Henderson and they, with the committeeman from Henderson, freely concede the legal right of the Zion farmers to decide, and their competency to decide, the matter at issue. We are chiefly concerned that the decision as to their 1911 crop be made after a fraternal discussion in a tolerant spirit.

At all hazards, strife and dissension must be kept down in the ranks of farmers.

Fear of monopoly should cement all dissensions in the ranks of tobacco growers.

We, as the official representatives of ten thousand tobacco growers in the five counties, all members of the stemming association, point with pride to the achievements of the association, and emphasize the fact that the victories won over Monopoly were made possible by the concerted action of three-fourths only of the tobacco growers in the five counties. What, then, might be reasonably be hoped for if all the growers could be induced to co-operate?

In conclusion, we, in the sincerest spirit of fraternity, personally and officially urge all tobacco growers to co-operate and pool the 1911 crop with the Stemming District Association.

Very Respectfully,

I. N. BAKER, Chairman, Webster County.
W. H. PARKER, Committeeman for Hopkins County.
C. G. OGLESBY, Committeeman for Union County.
G. L. CAMPBELL, Committeeman for Henderson County.
AARON TOWERY, Committeeman for Crittenden County.

Nurse Says:

"I know what is good for young and old people," writes Mrs. Clara Dykstra, a trained nurse of South Bellingham, Wash., "and will say that I consider Cardui the best medicine for girls and women. It makes them feel like new persons, relieves their pain and regulates womanly troubles. 'Both my daughter and I received great benefit.'"

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

As a medicine for female trouble, no medicine you can get has the old established reputation, that Cardui has.

Fifty (50) years of success prove that it has stood the greatest of all tests—the test of TIME.

As a tonic for weak women, Cardui is the best, because it is a woman's tonic. Pure, gentle, safe, reliable. Try Cardui.

GIRL IS KILLED BY SHOT AT TARGET.

Knoxville, Tenn., Feb. 21.—Miss Nellie Raymond, of this city, was accidentally shot at Rogersville today. While visiting an uncle at Rogersville she was seated on a block of wood near the house watching a friend, John Sizemore, display his marksmanship, shooting at blocks hurled in the air. While trying to get aim he lost control of the gun and a charge from the shotgun entered the left side of the girl's head. Death was instantaneous. She was 18 years of age and the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Raymond, of Knoxville.

John Sickelsmith, Greensboro, Pa., has three children, and like most children they frequently take cold. "We have tried several kinds of cough medicine," he says, "but have never found any yet that did them as much good as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." For sale by all dealers.

SPRING COMETH.

Once more has winter fled away;
The sweet bird voices ring;
The blossoms rise from earth to-day
To welcome fair Miss Spring.

She comes bedecked in sunshine bright,
A crocus on her hair,
And when she steps, her footprints light
Are marked by blossoms fair.

She comes in radiant beauty dressed,
And summer underclothes,
A mustard plaster on her chest
A snuffle in her nose.

To rehearse all we owe to the poetic band
Would baffle the readiest pen;
To arrive at the infinite sum of vast good
We may seek to compare "now and then."

SHEPHERD DOG WINS.

Elmhurst, Ky., Feb. 21.—Felix Wise, a resident of this city, is exhibiting around town the hide, complete, of a real live wild cat, which met its death at his place in the county a few days ago. A shepherd dog succeeded in tracing the feline, and the latter seizing what appeared to be a favorable opportunity, jumped out from the tree on the dog, and a terrible battle lasting several minutes, ensued. The dog finally proved himself the master, killing the ferocious cat. The hide measured four feet from head to tail.

KILLS HIMSELF AS FLAMES APPROACH.

Paris, Ont., Feb. 25.—Rather than be roasted alive, John Wintlaw, an express messenger, shot himself dead while pinned under the wreckage of a Grand Trunk passenger train here late Saturday night. Four trainmen met death in the crash.

As Express Messenger Whitlaw always carried a revolver, and although crushed under the wreckage of the car, he regained consciousness and urged rescuers to extricate him. The wreck was burning, however, and the workers were driven back, leaving the express messenger to face death in the flames.

"If you don't help me soon, I'll end it all," moaned Whitlaw. In a moment more there was a muffled shot. He had kept his word.

PETRIFIED CHICKEN FOUND IN SUMNER COUNTY.

Gallatin, Tenn., Feb. 17.—George Dunn of the Castalian Springs neighborhood, has a curiosity in the shape of a petrified chicken. The chicken was found by Mr. Dunn on his place under an old unused hay-baler, where it is supposed the fowl had become accidentally caught in some unknown manner some time ago and remained there until it died of starvation. The body of the fowl was well preserved and the most remarkable thing in connection with it is that the feathers are petrified together with the whole chicken. It is natural in appearance and resembles a fowl cut from solid stone. Mr. Dunn has placed the chicken on exhibition at the local produce house, where it has been viewed by a large number of citizens.

VIRGINIA TAKES ANOTHER MOTOR RIDE.

LEE VIRGINIA'S efforts to refine the little hotel produced an amazing change in Eliza Wetherford's affairs. The dining room swarmed with those seeking food, and as the news of the girl's beauty went out upon the range the cowboys sought excuse to ride in and get a square meal and a glimpse of the "queen" whose hand had witched "the old shack" into a marvel of cleanliness. Generally they failed of so much as a glance at her, for she kept away from the dining room at mealtime.

Lee Virginia was fully aware of this male curiosity and vaguely conscious of the light which shone in the eyes of some of them (men like Gregg). She had begun to understand, too, that her mother's reputation was a barrier between the better class of folk and herself. But as they came now and again to take a meal they permitted themselves a word in her praise, which she resented. "I don't want their friendship now," she declared bitterly.

As she gained courage to look about her she began to be interested in some of her boarders.

So far as the younger men were concerned, she saw little to admire and much to hate. They were crude and uninteresting rowdies for the most part. She was put upon her defense by their glances, and she came to dread walking along the street, so open and coarse were their words of praise.

Few of these loafers had the courage to stand on their feet and court her favor, but there was one who speedily became her chief persecutor. This was Neill Ballard, celebrated (and made impudent) by two years' travel with a wild west show. He was tall, lean, angular and freckled, but his horse-manship was marvelous and his skill with the rope magical.

He had lost his engagement by reason of a drunken brawl, and he was now living with his sister, the wife of a small rancher near by. Virginia despised the other men, but she feared this one, and quite justly.

The Greggs, father and son, were in open rivalry for Lee also, but in different ways. The older man, who had already been married several times, was disposed to buy her hand in which he called "honorable wedlock," but the son, at heart a libertine, approached her as one who despised the west and who, being kept in the beastly country by duty to a parent, was ready to amuse himself at any one's expense. He had no purpose in life but to feed his body and escape toil.

The chivalry of the plains, of which Lee had read so much and which she supposed she remembered, was gone. She doubted if it had ever existed among these centaurs. Why should it inhere in ignorant, brutal plainsmen any more than in ignorant, brutal factory hands?

There came to her now and again gentle old ranchers—"strangers," they would be called—and shy boys from the farms, but for the most part the men she saw imbibed her, and she kept out of their sight as much as possible. Her keenest pleasures, almost her only pleasures, lay in the occasional brief visits of Cavanagh as he rode in for his mail.

Lee perceived all these attacks on her daughter and was infuriated by them. Her brows were knotted with care as well as with pain, and she incessantly urged Virginia to go back to Sulphur. "I'll send you money to pay your board till you strike a job." But to this the girl would not agree, and the business by reason of her presence went on increasing from day to day.

To Redfield Lee one day confessed her pain. "I ought to send for that doctor up there, but the plain truth is I'm afraid of him. I don't want to see what the matter of me. It's his job to tell me I'm sick, and I'm tired of his verdict."

"Nonsense!" he replied. "You can't afford to put off getting him much longer. I'm going back tonight, but I'll be over again tomorrow. Why don't you let me bring him down? It will save you $12. And, by the way, suppose you let me take Lee Virginia home with me. She looks a bit depressed. An outing will do her good. She's taken hold here wonderfully."

"Hasn't she? But I should have sent her away the very first night. I'm getting to depend on her. I'm plumb foolish about her now—can't let her out of my sight, and yet I'm off my feed worrying over her. Gregg's getting dangerous. You can't fool me when it comes to men. Curse 'em! They're all alike, every one of them. I won't have my girl mistreated, I tell you that. I'm not fit to be her mother. Now, that's the truth, Reddy, and this rotten little back country town is no place for her. But what can I do? She won't leave me so long as I'm sick, and every day ties her closer to me. I don't know what I'd do without her. If I'm going to die I want her by me when I take my drop, so you see just how I'm placed."

She looked yellow and drawn as she ended, and Redfield was moved by her unwonted tenderness.

"Now, let me advise," he began after a moment's pause. "We mustn't let the girl get homesick. I'll take her home with me this afternoon and bring her back along with a doctor tomorrow."

"All right, but before you go I want to have a private talk. I want to tell you something."

He warned her away from what promised to be a confession. "Now, now, Eliza, don't tell me anything that requires that tone of voice. I'm a bad person to keep a secret, and you might be sorry for it. I don't want to know anything more about your business than I can guess."

"I don't mean the whisky trade," she explained. "I've cut that all out anyway. It's something more important—it's about Ed and me."

"I don't want to hear that either," he declared. "Let bygones be bygones. What you did then is outlawed anyway. Those were fierce times, and I want to forget them." He looked about. "Let me see Miss Virginia and convey to her Mrs. Redfield's invitation."

"She's in the kitchen, I reckon. Go right out."

He was rather glad of a chance to see the young reformer in action and smiled as he came upon her surrounded by waiters and cooks, busily superintending the preparations for the noon meal, which amounted to a tumult each day.

She saw Redfield, nodded and a few moments later came toward him, flushed and beaming with welcome. "I'm glad to see you again, Mr. Supervisor."

He bowed profoundly. "Mrs. Redfield sends by me a formal invitation to you to visit Elk Lodge. She is not quite able to take the long ride, else she'd come to you." Here he handed her a note. "I suggest that you go up with me this afternoon, and tomorrow we'll fetch the doctor down to see your mother. What do you say to that?"

Her eyes were dewy with grateful appreciation of his kindness as she answered, "That would be a great pleasure, Mr. Redfield, if mother feels able to spare me."

THE YOUNG REFORMER WAS SURROUNDED BY WAITERS AND COOKS.

"I've talked with her. She is anxious to have you go."

Virginia was indeed greatly pleased and pleasantly excited by this message, for she had heard much of Mrs. Redfield's exclusiveness and also of the splendor of her establishment. She hurried away to dress with such a flutter of joyous anticipation that Redfield felt quite repaid for the pressure he had put upon his wife to induce her to write that note. "You may leave Eliza Wetherford out of the count, my dear," he had said. "There is nothing of her discernible in the girl. Virginia is a lady. I don't know where she got it, but she's a gentleman by nature."

It was hot and still in town, but no sooner was the car in motion than both heat and dust were forgotten. Redfield's machine was not large, and as he was content to go at moderate speed, conversation was possible.

He was of that sunny, optimistic, ever youthful nature which finds delight in human companionship under any conditions whatsoever. He accepted this girl for what she seemed—a fresh, unspoiled child. He saw nothing cheap or commonplace in her and was not disposed to impose any of her father's wild doings upon her calendar. He had his misgivings as to her future. That was the main reason why he had said to Mrs. Redfield, "The girl must be helped." Afterward he had said "sustained."

It was inevitable that the girl should soon refer to the ranger, and Redfield was as complimentary of him as she could wish. "Ross hasn't a fault but one, and that's a negative one—he doesn't care a hang about getting on, as they say over in England. He's content just to do the duty of the moment. He made a good cowpuncher and a good soldier, but as for promotion—he laughs when I mention it."

"He told me that he hoped to be chief forester," protested Virginia.

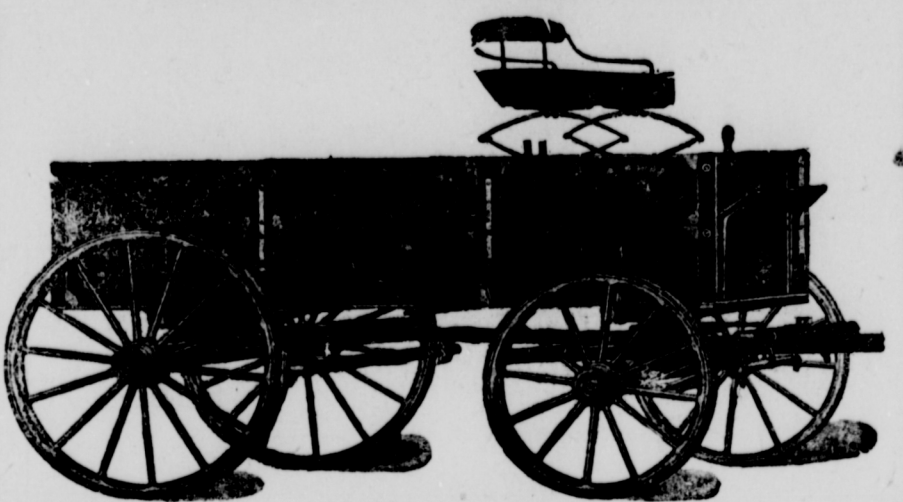

"Oh, yes, he says that, but do you know he'd rather be where he is, riding over the hills, than live in London. You should see his cabin some time. It's most wonderful, really. His walls are covered with bookshelves of his own manufacture and chairs of his own design. Where the boy got the skill I don't see. Heaven knows, his sisters are conventional enough! He's capable of being supervisor, but he won't live in town and work in an office. He's like an Indian in his love of the open."

HERE AT HOME.

Marion Citizens Gladly Testify And Confidently Recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

It is testimony like the following that has placed Doan's Kidney Pills so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Marion citizen:

Thomas L. Hilliard, Railroad St., Marion, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills came to my relief after I had suffered a great deal from kidney trouble and had spent much money for medicine without receiving any benefit. Two years ago I was taken with an attack of typhoid fever and upon recovering found that my kidneys were badly disordered. The pains in my back were so severe that frequently I had to leave my work and lie down for several hours. There was a constant desire to pass the kidney secretions and I was obliged to arise several times during the night. The kidney secretions were also highly colored and the passages were attended with pain. I became dizzy and dark spots floated before my eyes. A relative, hearing about my condition, advised me to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial and I procured a supply at Haynes & Taylor's Drug Store. They cured me in less than two months. For over two years I have had no return attack of my old complaint and am bound to look upon my cure as a permanent one."

OBITUARY.

Leander Bass, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bass, of Salem, fell asleep in Jesus March 4th, 1911. Aged twelve years. He suffered extremely for several days with pneumonia until God said it is enough, come up higher.

He had a lovable disposition, and was a bright, sweet child. He leaves a father, mother, two brothers and one sister to mourn his loss.

He greatly rejoiced in going to Sunday School, always had his lessons perfect. He was loved devotedly by his teacher and class mates, who paid him tribute of respect in the last sad hour after a brief life, he goes to be with Him, who said blessed are the dead who die in the Lord. Father, mother weep not for your little boy has gone to live with Jesus and the angels. There he will meet with sister, brother and dear old grand mother.

We know the family circle is broken, the world is poorer but Heaven is richer because we know there is one more bright little star up there.

After the services by the pastor, his remains were laid to rest at Tyner's Chapel.

May God graciously sustain and comfort the bereaved family in the prayer of the writer.

Another little lamb has gone, To dwell with Him who gave, Another little darling boy Is sheltered in the grave.

God needed one more angel child Amidst His singing band. And so he bent with loving smile, And clasped Leander's hand.

ROYAL Baking Powder Economy

The manufacturers of Royal Baking Powder have always declined to produce a cheap baking powder at the sacrifice of quality.

Royal Baking Powder is made from pure grape cream of tartar, and is the embodiment of all the excellence possible to be attained in the highest class baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder costs only a fair price, and is more economical at its price than any other leavening agent, because of the superlative quality and absolute wholesomeness of the food it makes.

Mixtures made in imitation of baking powders, but containing alum, are frequently distributed from door to door, or given away in grocery stores. Such mixtures are dangerous to use in food. In England, France, Germany and some sections of the United States their sale is prohibited by law. Alum is a dangerous mineral acid, and all physicians condemn baking powders containing it.

The label of alum baking powders must show the ingredients.

STORM AND CALM.

by O. G. W.

I sit in my chamber, and look out on the lea,
While clouds gather densely and storm-winds go free,
And flash after flash of white lightning goes by Illumines the dark that is shrouding the sky.

I recollect such a wild night on the lakes,
And crags of lake Erie; and memory makes
Its pictures of scene and pictures of sound,
The glen and the thunder reverberant round.

Oh, long was the journey from that night to this!
And fellow-wayfarers how many I miss—
The gentle, the faithful, the wise, and the brave Borne hence on the flow of the infinite wave!

And what though I linger, sad-thoughted, alone?
The friends we have had are forever our own;
And far comes the voices eternal that tell
The soul everlasting that all things are well.

What the Assessor's Book

Of the 213,989 acres, there were in cultivation, including meadows, only 53,288 acres, or about one fourth of all of it. There are 34,456 acres of woodland, and the woodland taken in connection with the land in cultivation shows that there are 126,243 acres, more than half the land in the county, cleared, but idle and unproductive. These figures, if not startling, at least contain enough food for thought to satisfy the hunger of The Farmers Union, The Society of Equity, and the defunct Commercial Club, and keep them from each others throats.

The disciples of Gifford Pinchot can find encouragement in the fact that the 34,456 acres of woodland is an increase of 2876 over the year before. It is doubtful if a dearer example of re-forestation exists any where.

From the hand bills posted at cross roads and other public places, one would believe the county to be the veritable home of thoroughbred stallions, yet there are only three, with a value of but $500.

There are only two diamonds in the county, as against eight the year before, but the size and quality has vastly improved. The eight were worth $955., while the two still in the county, are worth nearly as much, to be exact, $740.

In jewelry there are manifest signs of economy. Last year there was $1110. worth of jewelry, while now there is only $140. worth, and we know the man that owns it all. In gold, silver and plated ware, economy and retrenchment too is shown. Last year there was $190. worth of such ware, while now the stock is reduced to $105.

It is good to note an increase of 300 in children of school age over last year and the number now stands at 3769. As compared to ten years ago, we now have 360 fewer children.

The adult males in the county number 3083, a slight increase over last year, but a decrease in the last ten years of 140. Children may come but they certainly go from us as soon as the age of discretion permits.

We raised 38,826 bushels of wheat on 2871 acres of land, and the year before raised 13,507 bushels of 967 acres; an average yield of each year of 14 bushels per acre.

We raised 663,285 bushels of corn on 36,392 acres and 450,965 bushels the year before on 26,103 acre—a yield of 18 bushels per acre this year and 15 bushels the year before.

We raised 2,932,048 lbs of tobacco on 4506 acres, while the year before we raised 1,643,350 lbs on 2292 acres—A yield of 650 lbs per acre, as against 717 lbs the year before.

We owe by mortgage, notes and accounts $262,661 and have in bank and in cash $159,372 with which to pay it. The year before we owed $298,022 and had $119,600 cash and in bank with which we did not pay it.

The total value of property listed in the county is $3,117,602, and from which about $17,000 is collected for county purposes. One half is expended on the roads during the late summer months, to be washed away next winter.
